Infrastructure & Operations for a Flourishing Creative Economy

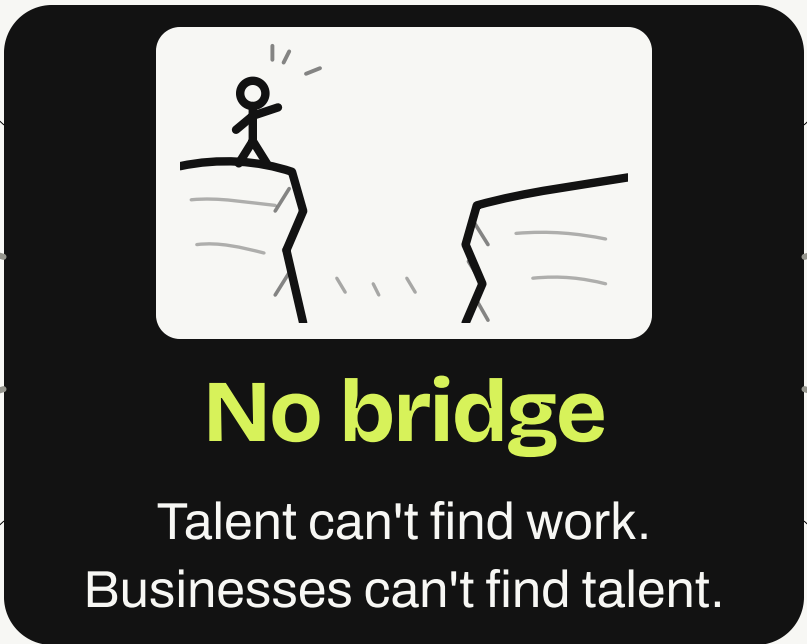

Rewiring the economics of creative work.

PROBLEM

The current economic systems supporting creatives are failing both the creatives and patrons.

CREATIVES

- Isolated
No table, no peers, nobody asking.
- Underpaid
Three jobs, and the creative work is the one that doesn't pay.
- Posting into the void
Instagram, hoping to be noticed.
- Not worthy
The story they start to believe.

BUSINESSES AND ORGANIZATIONS

- Tools taped together
Three or four rented tools, none built for this work.
- Can't find local talent
No trusted way to find, vet and pay creatives.
- Empty rooms
Slow nights, and nothing to draw people in.
- Questionable impacts
Sponsors can't see what it did.

Arts funding is tight.
San Diego creatives leave or stop making work.

FOR CREATIVES

PROBLEM

Isolated

No table, no peers, nobody asking.

SOLUTION

Community

A community that knows you and your work, in person and online.

FOR BUSINESSES AND ORGANIZATIONS

PROBLEM

Empty rooms

Slow nights, and nothing to draw people in.

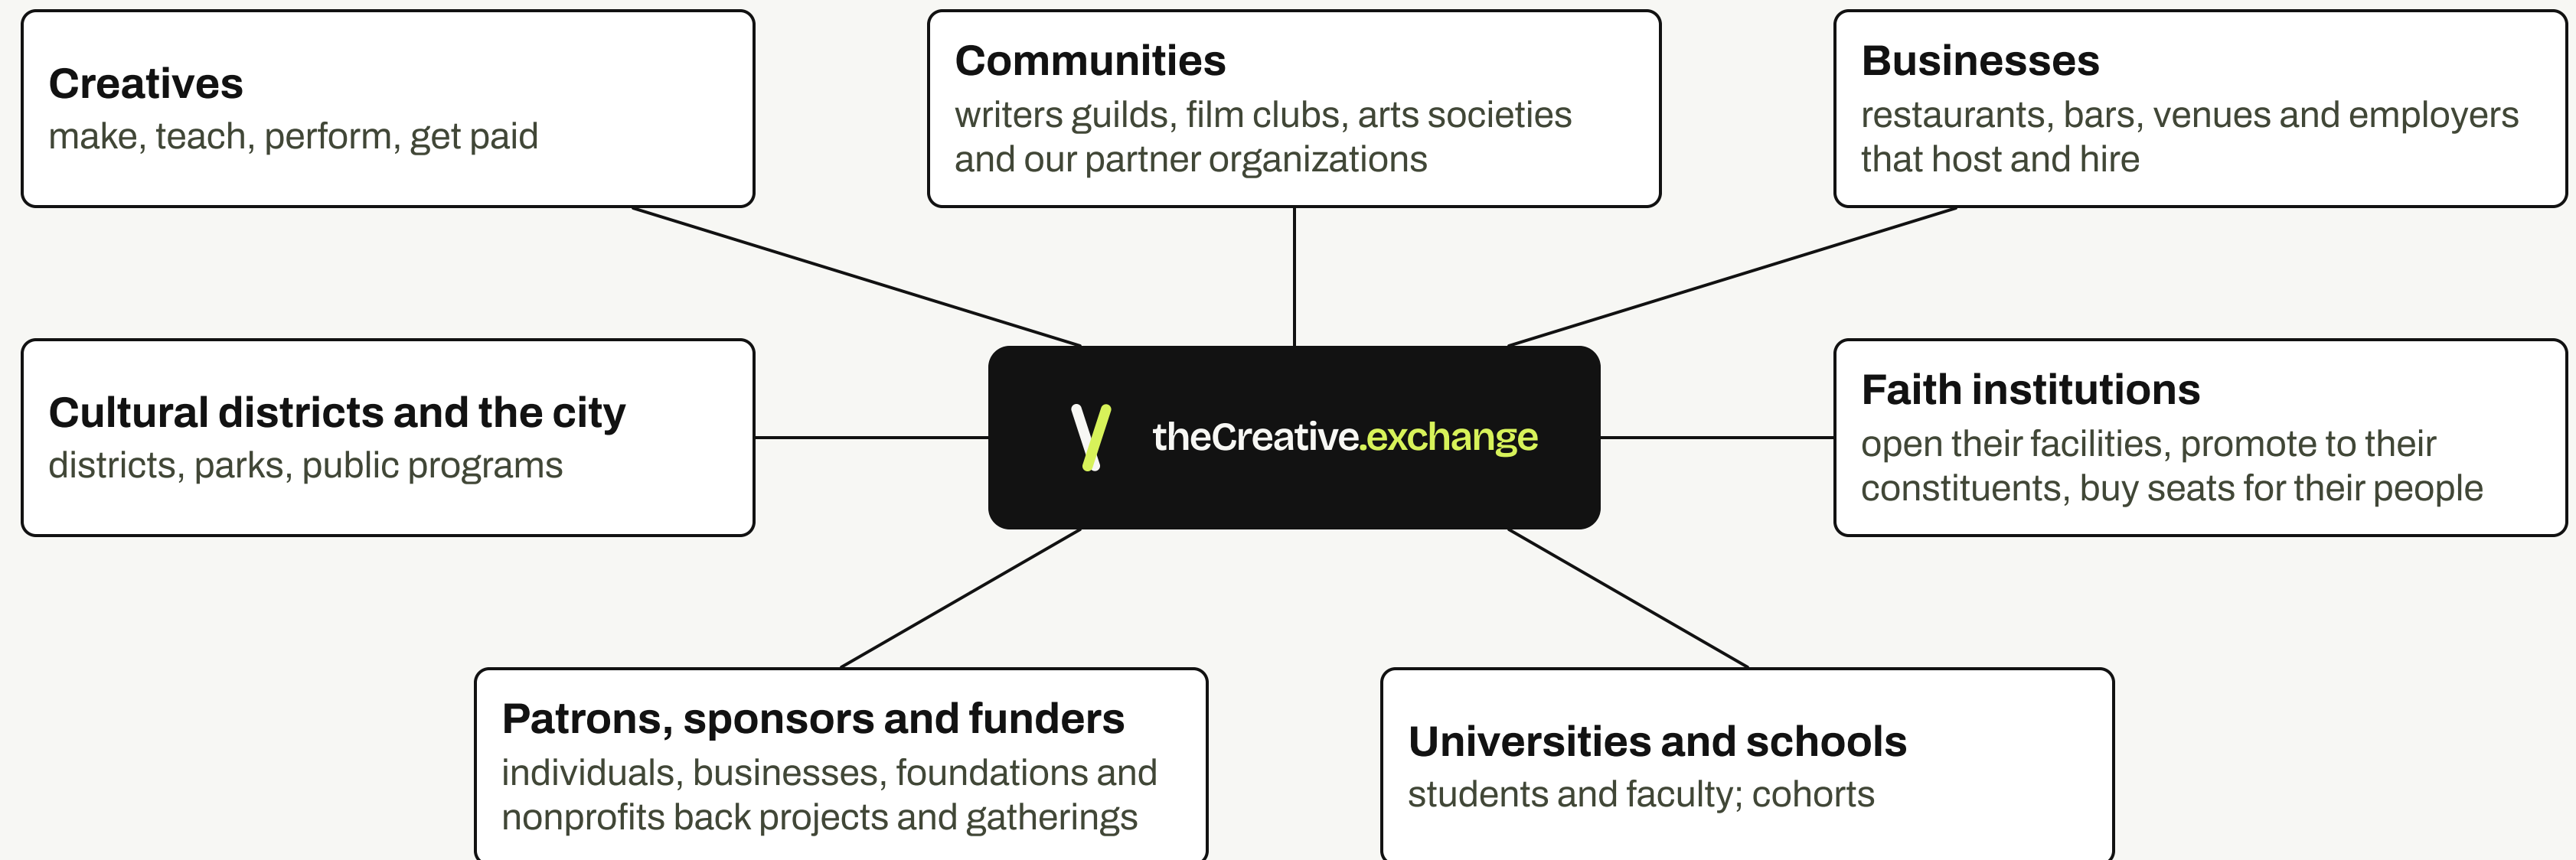

SOLUTION

Full rooms

Events and classes that draw people in.

WHO IT SERVES

The infrastructure and engine for the arts and business in a city.

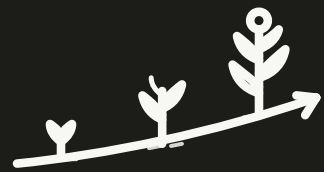

Better circulation of money: community wealth that starts with creatives, the people.

IMPACT ON THE CREATIVE CLASS

Flourishing is three things you can measure in a person's life.

FINANCIAL

Greater opportunities locally

More retention of earnings.

SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL

Belonging

A community that knows you and your work.

CULTURAL

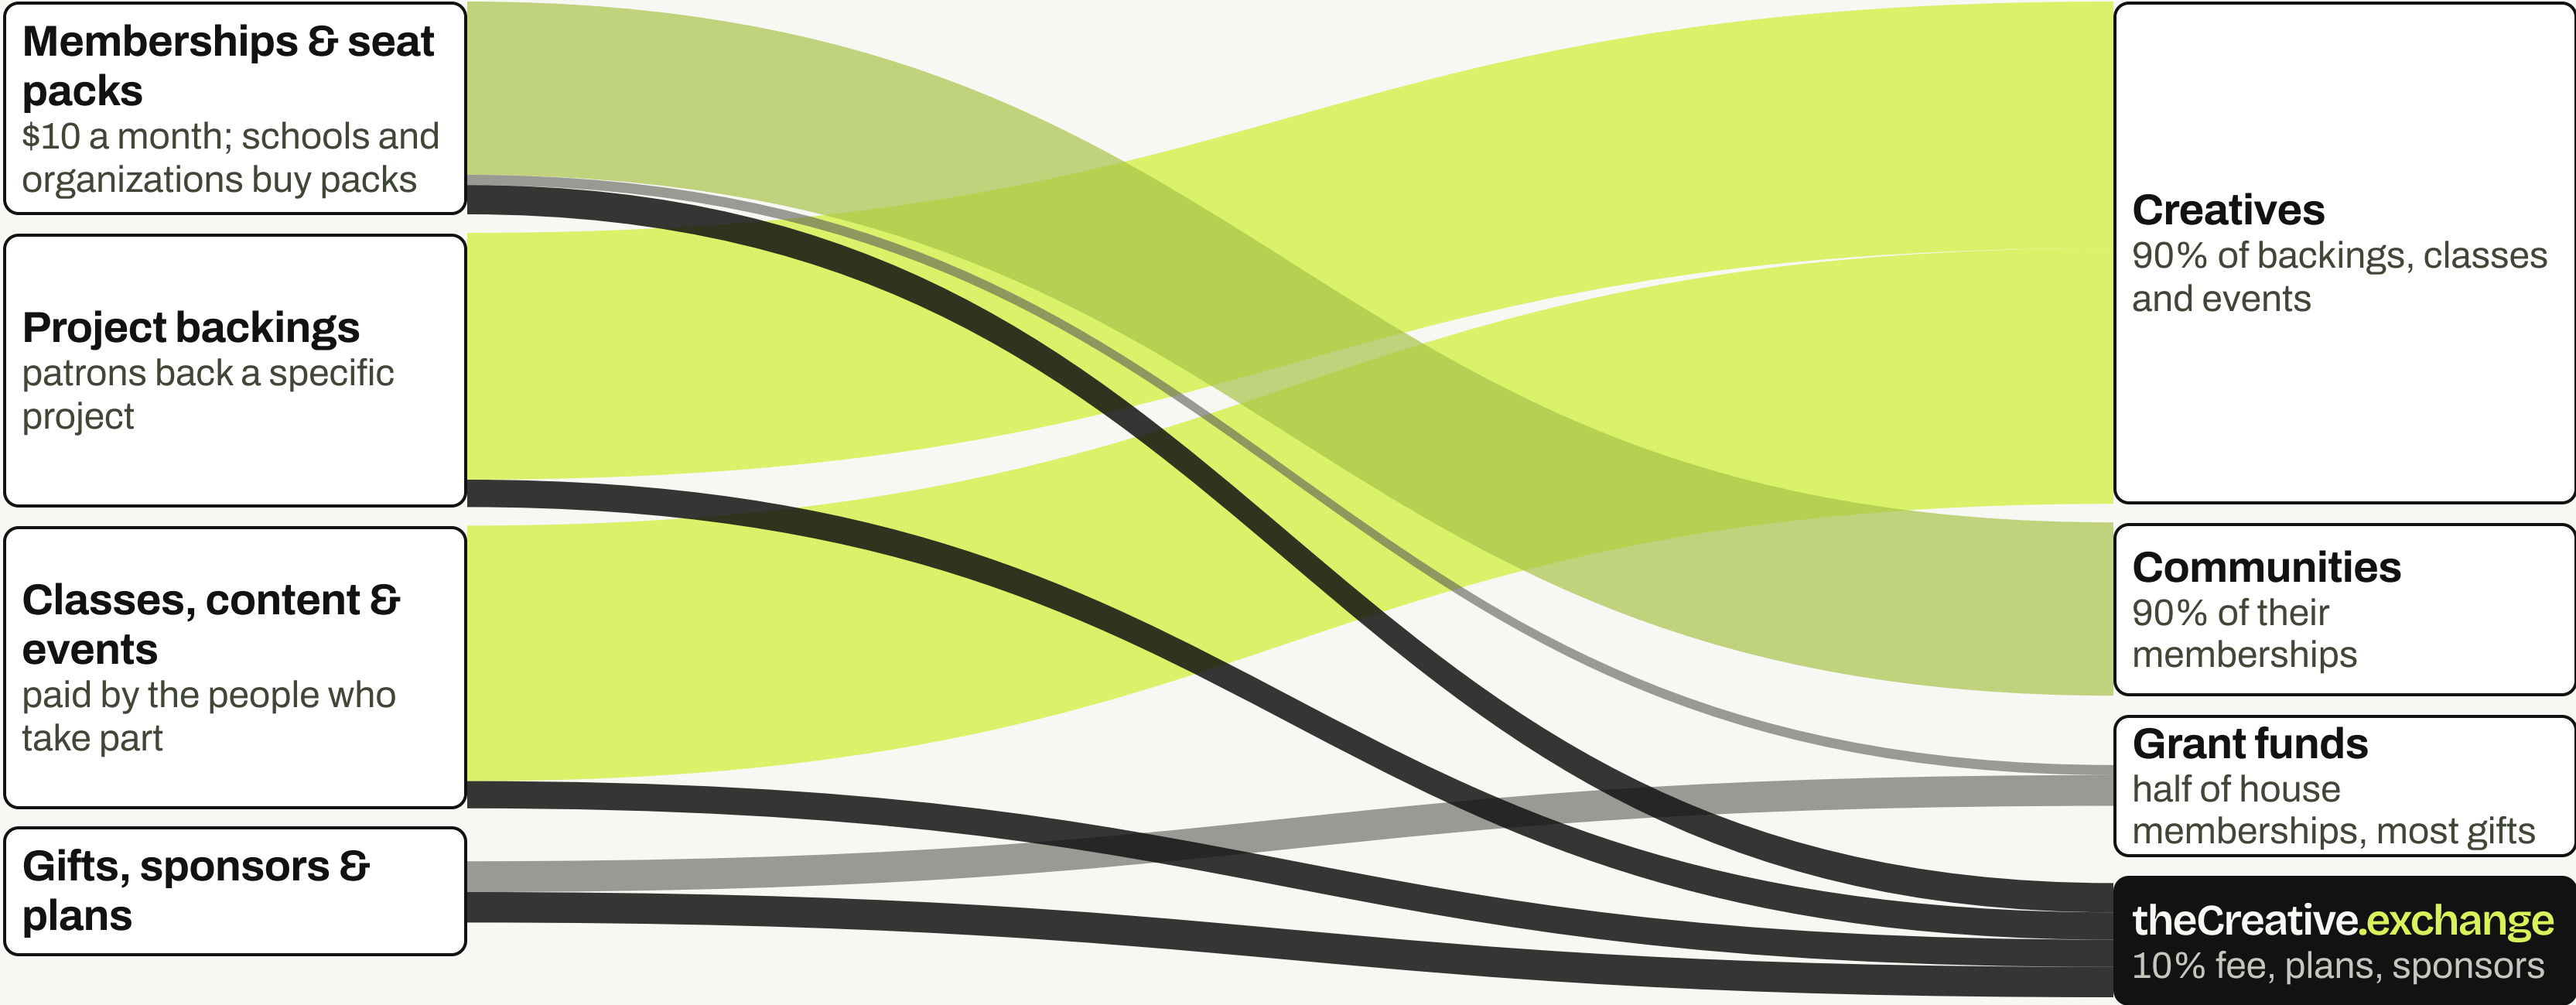

Agency

Creatives own the portfolio.

REVENUE MODEL

Multiple commerce streams.

Gifts to grant funds go to our 501(c)(3) partners and are reported separately from company revenue.

MARKET

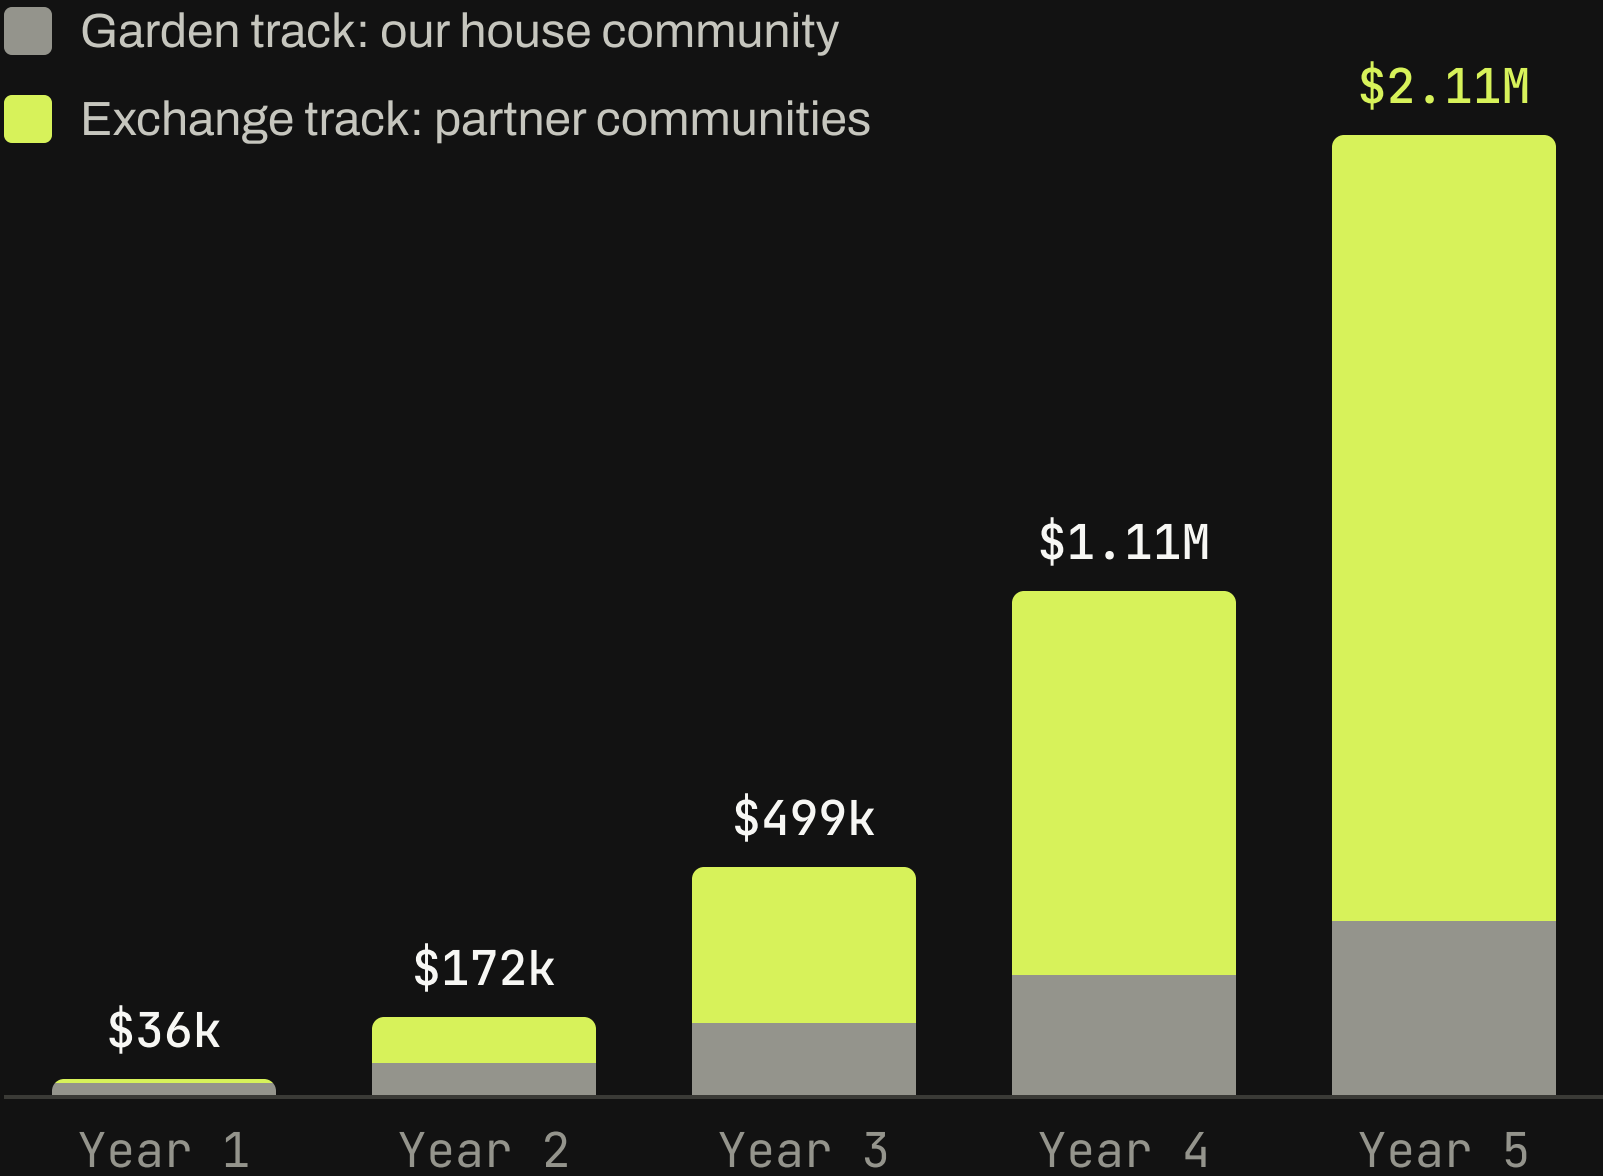

From San Diego to 10 cities in 3 years.

A metro is a community run by its own people on our infrastructure. Organizations buying seats: about 15% of revenue in year three.

THE BUSINESS

Two tracks. $2.1M revenue and breakeven in year four, on today's prices.

Earned revenue: a 10% share of money moved, so we don't compete with nonprofits for grants

Seats and plans: faith institutions, organizations and communities pay for the platform

Sponsorships and program fees

Base case, 20 metros • funded case: $1.4M in year three, $9.3M in year five, profitable in year four

WHERE IT STANDS

Soft-launched September 28. Kickoff November 6.

30+

creatives in the app now.

communities live, with partner organizations:

The Table Art Society, The Grove, Abiding Practice, Temple

Nov 6

Kickoff event launching the faith-based creatives community, along with a public community: "The Creative Economy We All Need" at Lightchurch, Encinitas.

Funded work on stage, backing from your phone in the room, a benefit for the grant fund.

Live now: profiles, projects, paid work, events, communities, classes, covered seats, backing checkout.

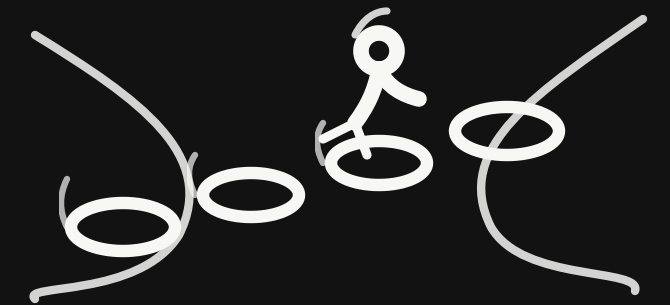

Proven demand: The Table Art Society has run this ecosystem model since 2019, with 91 cohort creatives and about 4,800 people reached a year.

How we validate impact, every six months.

Outcome	What we count	Validated at 18 months
Creatives	Dollars paid to creatives · creatives paid · creative income, before and after	1,250 active growing to 6,000+ by year three creatives who earn report 10%+ more income
Belonging	Active members · retention · belonging survey, before and after	90% net revenue retention · belonging score up from baseline
Diversity and agency	Who leads and who gets paid, by discipline and neighborhood	Baseline set in the first report, then tracked
Local economy	Business-owner survey · dollars transacted with local businesses through the exchange	Baseline set, then growing

THE ASK

$350,000 pre-seed.

It funds

Lean operations: a three-person team, two full time from the first close, three metros launched and 17 months of runway.

It proves

Eighteen communities, three metros and 1,250 paying individuals at 18 months; 6,000+ paying by year three; impact report every six months.

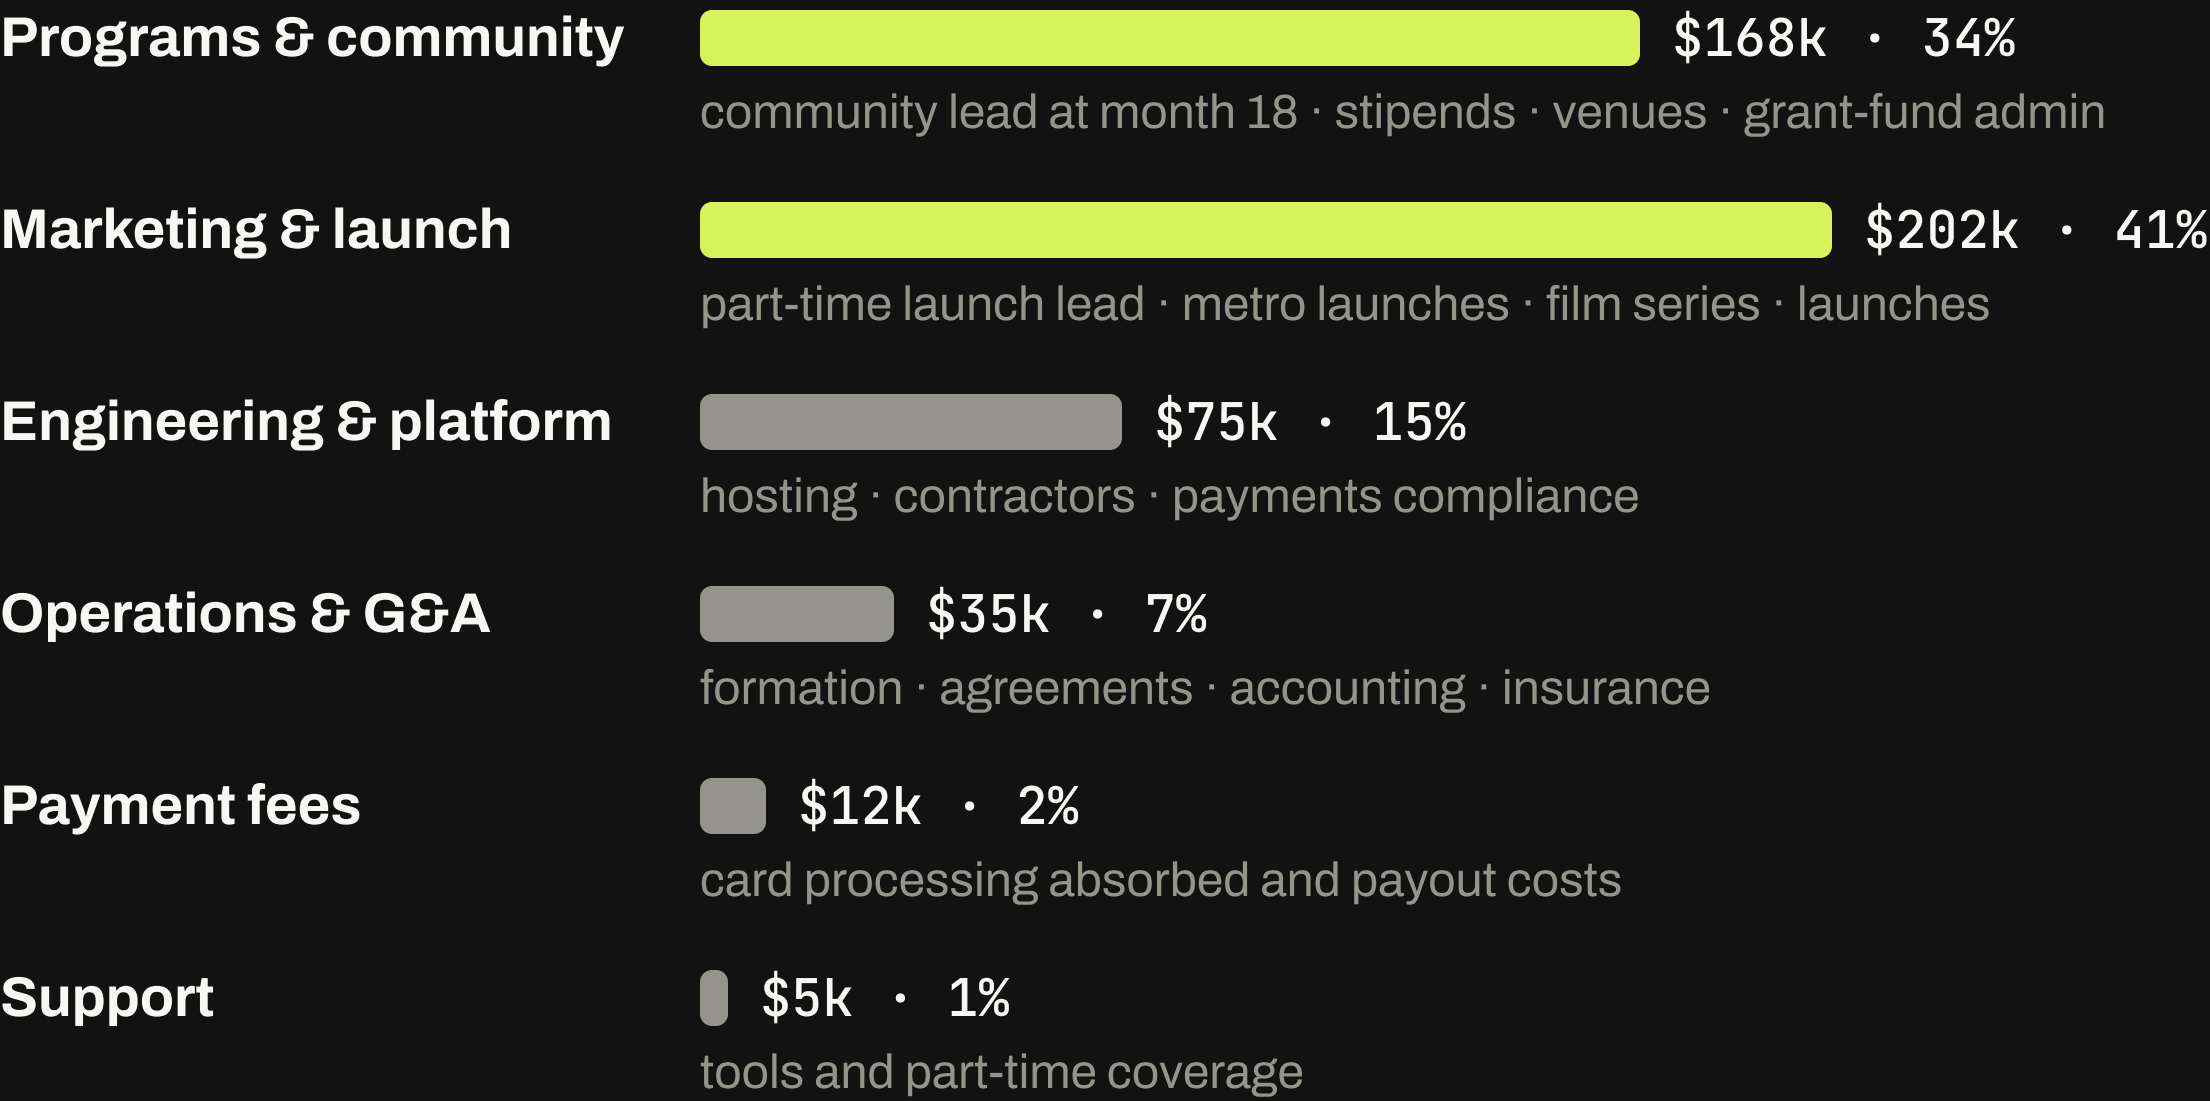

Partners

A network of multiple 501(c)(3) partners, seat packs from organizations, and a community round.

Post-money SAFEs • Delaware C-corp formed before the first check • rolling closes to $350k • seed at 18 months

USE OF FUNDS

75% on community and GTM.

18-MONTH WINDOW

$497k spend

$122k revenue

17 months of runway on $350k

Base case · founder pay sits inside the functions · full budget and headcount plan in the model
